DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-8, drawn to power control, classified in class 713, subclass 300.
 - II. Claims 9-10, drawn to wake-up circuitry, classified in class 327, subclass 520.
 - III. Claims 11-26, drawn to a method for coordinate detection, classified in class 345, subclass 173.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because it may use wake up circuitry that is different than that of invention II. The subcombination has separate utility such as being used in detection apparatus that is different from that of invention I.

Inventions I and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the method does not require the wake up unit as described in invention I with a wake-up signal having first and second levels. Further, the apparatus does not require the coordinate detection method as described in invention III.

Inventions II and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case the method does not require the wake up circuitry as described in invention II with a wake-up signal having first and second levels. Further, the apparatus does not require the coordinate detection method as described in invention III.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

A telephone call was made to Steve Rabin, Reg. No., 29,102 on 21 March 2005 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

It appears that claim 1 would be allowable over the prior art of record based on an initial search.
